

OVERVIEW

As countries around the world work to tackle the spread of Covid-19, the threat of business interruption has become real, throwing arrangements into disarray, disrupting workforce, and upsetting the global economy.

At home, the government has begun issuing various countermeasures and relief for businesses and public alike. The following is a summary of legislation and government updates issued to navigate the Covid-19 outbreak. Our team continues to assess developments, which will be issued in the weeks to come. Coronavirus Spurs More Government Entities to Move Online

Joining several courts and various capital markets institutions, the Ministry of Land Affairs (Kementerian ATR-BPN) is now requiring certain land-related services to be done online. Here, we review the circular letter from the Ministry and its potential impact to the current condition of land filings. Click here to read more
